Writing and Drawing on the Interactive Screen in Ink Aware Programs

You can write or draw on the interactive screen using a pen tray pen (on interactive whiteboards) or a tethered pen (on interactive pen displays). If the program is Ink Aware, that is, it is integrated with SMART Notebook, whatever you write or draw on the interactive product becomes a component of the program file. Ink Aware software products include Microsoft® Word, Excel® and PowerPoint® software.

To write or draw on the interactive screen

If you're using an interactive whiteboard, write or draw on the screen using a pen tray pen.

OR

If you're using an interactive pen display, press a Digital Ink pen tool button and write or draw on the screen using the tethered pen.

TIP

Don't rest your elbow or the palm of your hand on the screen while you're writing.

Insert your notes into the program as text and insert your drawings as images using the program's toolbar options.

To save your notes

After you finish writing and drawing, save your notes in the program.

Writing and Drawing on the Interactive Screen in Non-Aware Programs

If the program is non-Aware, whatever you write or draw on the interactive product appears on a transparent layer over the current program.

To write or draw on the interactive screen

If you're using an interactive whiteboard, write or draw on the screen using a pen tray pen.

OR

If you're using an interactive pen display, press a Digital Ink pen tool button and write or draw on the screen using the tethered pen.

To insert your notes into the program as text, right-click and select one of the Inject ... Here options in the menu that appears.

To erase digital ink

1. If you're using an interactive whiteboard, pick up the eraser, and then press it on the interactive screen to erase the digital ink.
